Darmstadt TOP TEN

1. Central Station - The name comes from the 1994 number 110th. The station was opened in 1912. At that time there was no large train station for the city. The station is still Darmstadt's most beautiful train station. The station was opened in 1912. At that time there was no large train station for the city. The station is still Darmstadt's most beautiful train station.

2. Texte Theatre - The theatre was in the 1980s refurbished and modernized and reopened. Now it is one of the best theatres in the country. The theatre has three different big stages and a variety of daily shows. For each theater taste is available. Celebrating, being creative and to get to know new young people. Especially when it rains you should use this option.

3. National Theatre - Much better than a cinema!

4. Artell - Darmstadt for beginners ...

5. Ice of the Woog. - During cold winters, you probably can even walk on the frozen lake. The Woog is a large natural lake in the middle of the city. You can choose between two different pools: one with refreshing water with ducks, turtles and other families, if you're lucky even with a small snake. The hostel is right next door.

6. Barracks - an ideal meeting place for games and sport fans. Football and basketball fields are available. Celebrating, being creative and to get to know new young people. Especially when it rains you should use this option.

7. State Theatre - much better than a cinema!

9. City Palace - The Baroque city palace from the 19th century and the nearby park Rosenhöhe are also worth a visit. All around there are some completely preserved Art Nouveau buildings. The artists' colony Mathildenhöhe is a must for any art lover. The Duke Ernst Ludwig to Princess Eleonore, the Russian Empress Zarin Alexandra of Hesse-Darmstadt were married here. The chapel, for Zarin Alexandra of Hesse-Darmstadt specially built, can be admired there: the "Five Finger Tower", a nearly 50 meter-high stone pillar in the middle of the square shows the sandstone of Darmstadt.

10. Darmstadtium - A science and congress center, which looks like a large ship, is an important part of Darmstadt's modern identity. Here you probably arrive in our beautiful city when you are visiting us by train or airplane for the first time.
